Shared Services.... a Win-Win Situation for All

In our continuing efforts to streamline processes and efficiently utilize the County resources, many shared services arrangements have been established, saving the County millions of dollars this year. We continue to look for opportunities for other shared services. These agreements are a win-win situation and they have a positive effect on everyone.

The County participates in over 20 different types of shared service agreements. The services are shared between municipalities and between counties. This sharing of services saves money and reduces taxes on both the County and local/municipal level.

Here are some examples of the shared services programs in which the County is involved:

County Shared Services:

Gloucester County – Youth Sheltering, Public Health Officer, Mental Health Administrator, Medical Examiner, and Social Rehab Officer and Housing Inmates at Salem County Correctional Facility.

Camden County – Reciprocal agreement to share specialized equipment during time of repair/calibration.

Cumberland County – Detention Center to house Salem County Juveniles.

Municipal Shared Services:

- All Municipalities utilize the County for Public Health Practice Standards.
- Salem County Vo-Tech Services District offers basic skills training for the inmates in the SC Correctional Facility.
- Share of resources with municipalities to resurface parking lots, salt storage, and lawn maintenance.

"We continue to search for opportunities to share services and cut County expenses without compromising services provided to County residents."

911 Enhancements Create Top Quality Emergency Response

The Public Safety Telecommunicators (PSTs), commonly known as dispatchers, continue to strive to improve their performance through continued education. The members are ready to deliver the most accurate medical information to aid a caller in distress until appropriate medical technicians arrive at their location.

Training has also included "Customer Service" training and "Supervision" training. Both courses were sponsored by the Association of Public-Safety Communications Officials (APCO). The customer service course offered advanced strategies to meet and exceed customer expectations.

In addition to educational training, the renovation project for the 911 communication center is quickly nearing completion. The room renovations to both the Fire/EMS dispatch room and police dispatch room began in January. New additions to both rooms included upgraded computers, new Telex radio consoles, and the installation of the ergonomic Xybiz furniture systems. This state of the art console equipment will enhance personnel performance and provide the best possible service for our citizens.

The Freeholder Board has approved the purchase of an upgrade for the current Ztron 911 Phone system. The county is moving closer to approving the purchase of a multi-jurisdictional Computer Aided Dispatch System that will benefit all emergency service agencies. Our goal is to enhance both of these communications systems to ensure that the best possible emergency response is afforded to all citizens.

"The renovation project was overdue and a much needed improvement. It ensures PSTs are afforded the best environment to perform critical functions 24 hours/7 days a week. Our mission is to deliver the best 911 emergency service to anyone who calls."

SPOTLIGHT ... Annette Devitt, 4H Agent for Salem County

Annette Devitt is the 4-H Agent for Salem County. As the County Agent, Annette coordinates Salem County's 4-H program which is the youth component of Rutgers Cooperative Extension. In Salem County, the 4-H club program involves 375 members in 24 clubs. 4-H project work includes raising animals, arts and crafts, shooting sports, and leadership. Approximately 50 dedicated adult volunteers give of their time and knowledge to guide youth through the 4-H program.

The goal of the 4-H program is to provide youth in kindergarten through the year after high school with life skills they need to be competent, caring, contributing adults. Their projects are the primary means of learning skills like responsibility, goal-setting, decision making, and record keeping. Youth also learn public speaking and participate in community service projects. Leadership development is also important as youth serve as officers and teen leaders for their clubs.

Annette, along with 4-H Program Assistant, Lisa Perry, coordinates the recruitment of both youth and volunteers. They train and provide support for the volunteers; coordinate county-wide events like the Public Presentations Contest; and coordinate educational programs to support the learning experiences of youth and adults. At the state level, Annette has been a key contributor to the statewide Get Moving – Get Healthy with New Jersey 4-H program. Contact Annette at 856-769-0090.

SPOTLIGHT ... Dottie Davis, Office of Aging

Dottie Davis is the "face and voice" of the Office of Aging within the Department of Health and Human Services. When you stop in the office or call, she is usually the first one you will talk to. Along with her general duties of directing people to the right staffer, she maintains client contact files and tracks inventory.

Dottie also is certified by the state to counsel Salem County residents about the insurance market place and Medicare. She helps the public navigate the ever-changing policies and programs and answers questions about benefits, claims, Medigap, drug plans, long-term care, beneficiaries, HMO's, PPOs, and the other alphabet plans. Dottie does not provide legal advice, sell, or recommend specific insurance products or companies. She is just there to help.

For example, she counsels DuPont and other retirees who lost health insurance and now need to find a third party provider within their benefit dollar threshold. She also helps people select the right Medicare drug plan by examining their drug needs and the policy regarding Medicare exclusions. Additionally, she reviews denied claims and helps get them amended for payment where possible. Most importantly to the public – Dottie has a "unique identifier code" and a "hotline" number that she can call to reach the right person in Medicare to get information with less waiting time. She and another certified counselor in the office handle up to 40 customer help calls each month. Contact Dottie at 856-339-8622.

Public Works

Maintaining our County infrastructure is an important and ongoing endeavor. Below are a few projects currently underway.

Salem County Vo-Tech Water Tower:

The Salem County Freeholder Board entered into an agreement with Corrosion Control Corp. to repair and repaint the 21 year old Salem County Vo-Tech water tower.

The venture includes the repairs, parts replacement, and cosmetic refreshing to rehabilitate the water tower. The project is to be completed within the next month.

Willow Grove Dam: The dam embankment must be protected from erosion by flood water overtopping the dam. Rehabilitation of the spillways is needed to improve capacity to pass the flood spillway design.

Under the direction of Freeholder Ben Laury and the staff of Public Works, the project is being constructed in two phases, the Cumberland County phase and the Salem County phase. Salem County has received funding approval for 80% of the project costs through the Federal Highway Administration. Construction is expected to take 10 months to complete.

Avis Mill Lake: The Salem County Freeholders have entered into an agreement with RE Pierson to excavate silt/sediment from the lake bed of Avis Mill Lake, a County owned park.

County Completes a Successful Audit

The 2013 annual financial statement audit was completed in June by the County Auditors, The Mercadien Group. The County received an "unmodified opinion", which is the highest audit opinion possible. The County was able to correct all four of the Financial Statement Findings reported the previous year.

The clean audit was a result of the hard work of the Treasurer's Department, in conjunction with the cooperation of all County Departments. The audit ensures uniform accounting, budgeting, and financial reporting by the County government.

The 2013 audit report also illustrates the County's improving financial status. The County's surplus balance increased by over 2 million dollars from 2012 and County net debt decreased by almost 4 million dollars. The hard work that was put into creating financial stability allowed the County to maintain a flat tax levy in 2013 and to reduce the tax levy in 2014.

"We appreciate the dedication of our County CFO and staff who are devoted to improving the status of the county financial reporting. We are moving in the right direction and providing our residents with third party verification of responsible and honest use of public resources." Julie Acton, Freeholder Director
